

Operations and Supply Management Minor • Minor

Why Choose an Operations and Supply Management Minor?

The Operations and Supply Management Minor is designed to complement the student's existing major and expand their career objectives. Having an Operations and Supply Management Minor adds skills that are highly sought after by employers in areas like Purchasing, Materials and Logistics Management, and Quality Management.

Students enrolled in the Operations and Supply Management Minor courses will learn current theories and gain experience by applying them. This includes opportunities to network with major corporations, visit plants and facilities, and practice the tools learned in the classroom at specific companies.

The objective of the Operations and Supply Management program is to provide students with a hands-on experience under real conditions with participating companies. The integrated course requirements with the College of Technology make the Operations and Supply Management Minor unique within the College of Business and University.
